READINESS: TRAINING IDENTIFICATION AND PREPAREDNESS PLANNING

MGT-418

Instruction covers creating effective training plans through organizational collaboration establishing a whole community approach. With the jurisdictional training assessment process, the integrated assessment team creates a jurisdictional profile and evaluates the ability to fully implement Emergency Operation Plans (EOPs). Training gaps are identified and cataloged. The after action review (AAR) process assist in gap identification. Methods for closing training gaps are prioritized, improvement plans are developed, and courses of action are identified. Through this procedure training cost may be reduced and organizational collaboration increased. This course is instructed as a partnership between The National Emergency Response and Rescue Training Center (NERRTC) and The National Center for Biomedical Research and Training (NCBRT).
